

Terry Stewart says his "first plastic models were made out of wood!" He has been a model builder since the days of the solid wood kits and turns out about 8 models a year. Among his first builds were a Strombecker airliner and a Monogram "Speedee-bilt" B-25 which was mainly balsa with plastic details. He prefers aircraft and is shown with a 1/40 scale B-17 that he built from a Monogram kit. He overcame a little problem gluing the canopy and the kit took about 15 hours to complete.
